

Evolutionary Perspectives on Environmental Problems

By Dustin Penn, Iver Mysterud

Hardback. Book Condition: New. Not Signed; The twenty-first century presents an increasing number of environmental problems, including toxic pollution, global warming, destruction of tropical forests, extinction of biological diversity, and depletion of natural resources. These environmental problems are generally due to human behavior, namely over-consumption of resources and overpopulation. Designing effective policies to address these problems requires a deep understanding of human behavior as well as ecology. This in turn requires considerations of human nature, and the evolutionary design of the human mind. Evolutionary research on human behavior has profound implications for the environmental sciences. The aim of this collection is to bring together a variety of chapters that show how and why. Part 1, Human Nature and Resource Conservation, addresses environmental problems from different evolutionary perspectives. Part 2, The Ecological Noble Savage Hypothesis, examines the notion that our environmental problems are due to Western culture, and that our ancestors and people in indigenous societies lived in harmony with nature until the corrupting influences of Western culture. Part 3, The Tragedy of the Commons, explores the conservation of common-pool or open-access natural resources, such as fisheries, forests, grazing lands, freshwater, and clean air. Part 4, The Evolution of Discounting and...
