Controlling Accounts.--The addition of special columns in books of original entry makes possible the keeping of Controlling Accounts. The most common examples of such accounts are Accounts Receivable account and Accounts Payable account. These summary accounts, respectively, displace individual customers and creditors accounts in the Ledger. The customers accounts are then segregated in another book called the Sales Ledger or Customers Ledger, while the creditors accounts are kept in the Purchase or Creditors Ledger. The original Ledger, now much reduced in size, is called the General Ledger. The Trial Balance now refers to the accounts in...
