Standing at attention, the right foot is carried 12 inches to the right, the arms extended over the head, palms forward, and the body bent forward until the tips of the fingers touch the floor, then by a series of twistings and contortions which are difficult of description, the body finally returns to attention. Each performance of this exercise takes a full minute, and should be repeated five to ten times on rising and retiring. The exercise has a wonderful effect in improving the beauty and curves of the figure. It seems to have the same effect upon the patient that the Lance exercises have on the soldiers in a...
